A FORT WORTH MAN'S SUCCESS WITH THE LITTLE JERSEYS.

Mr. W. F. Patterson of this city is a practical believer in the benefit of improved breeds of cattle for Texas. He illustrates his faith by works, and his success in handling some of the ther breeds is most gratifying and encouraging. One day this week he sold a six-months-old Jersey calf to Mr. Mc-Clelland of the Martin Brown Co. for as not as $200. He also disposed recently of twelve head of young heifers of the same blood for $125 each. In addition to this he has cleared this season about $500 from the services

Of the many compliments which have been paid by men of thought all over the country to the discussion by Prof. Hogg of "The Railroad as an Element in Education," the following, coming from his aima mater, will, no doubt, be most highly prized by the superintendent of our city schools:

University of Virginia, Dec. 17, 1885.—My Dean Prof. Hoon: It has not been my fault. I beg to assure you, that your most interesting letter accompanying the great New Orleans address has not been acknowledged more promptly. Great demestic trouble of various kinds has for a time interrupted my correspondence, and even now my health is such as seriously to curtail my efficiency.
